

LETTER OF MOTIVATION: ANALIA ASPIS

Position of independent expert at the Competition, Consumer Trust and Consumer Choice
Review Team

I am pleased to present my proposal to be granted as independent expert at the Competition, Consumer Trust and Consumer Choice Review Team

I have been working for the past years in the IT law field, both in her doctoral research project in the field of Consumers' Privacy and Internet Governance and well as Research Group Projects and currently designing (UBACyT and DECyT) in the field of Surveillance, IT Law and Human Rights. Moreover, I have contributed many times in the Lawyers Institute for Law and Informatics by actively intervening in the meetings as well as a reporter of different issues related to technology, following the whole process and theme of ICANN (NCUC and), evaluating and monitoring the current agenda and well as the international forums related to Internet Governance. Moreover, as co-coordinator of the Internet Governance Caucus I am very involved in civil society concerns with regard Internet's agenda. In addition, as part of the Freedom Online Coalition, I have been working closely with a multistakeholder group (including the government of United States of America, Canada and The Netherlands) focusing our effort in enhancing human rights protection within online activities.

Accordingly, I have a very strong knowledge of Internet issues being one of the few professionals in Argentina with an excellent academic records and background on the field. Not only I have obtained several support for the Argentinean, Swiss and Swedish governments to pursue her studies and doctoral research but as well I has return all that support and knowledge to my country. I holds one of the best grades in the University of Buenos Aires, as well as an MBA in Switzerland (University of Lausanne) and research work in Sweden (University of Stockholm – Center for Law and Informatics). I am as well a specialist in Ipv6- RFID and its relation with Internet of Things and is one of the few professionals in Argentina you is deeply committed to built a strong network within the academia as well as with students to promote the human rights and the use of the technology. In this sense, I wish to create an Observatory for IG in LatinAmerica, as the second step after an excellent experience of the Argentina Hub for Internet Governance and Internet Governance Study Group (Faculty of Law).

I consider I have always shown an early concern in alternatives solutions to nowadays problems between technology and law, being always my aim to join forces and to collaborate in both educational and social problems that this field involved. As a Latin American citizen I think I can offer a comprehensive point of view of the issues, contribute to the understanding of the different backgrounds and situations. Moreover, I do consider the research as a unique opportunity to enhance her research work across Latin America and to start an active network not only in the region but collaborate worldwide. I am more that convinced that I do have has both the intellectual and professional capacity to promote and subscribe ICANN's mission.

Finally, for a personal point of view I consider myself as a very responsible, enthusiastic, proactive and team-worker person, always being very positive and compromise with each task and challenge in my life.

In conclusion, I would be extremely honored to be granted a position as independent expert at the Competition, Consumer Trust and Consumer Choice Review Team, firmly believing I am the appropriate person to pursue it.

Analía Aspis
Faculty of Law University of Buenos Aires