1. Current vocation, employer and position:

Director of Operations, Secure Domain Foundation

Privacy Counsel, CrowdStrike Inc.

Adjunct Professor, University of Maryland University College

2. Type of work performed in 1 above and declaration of relationships with entities holding a Financial (or declarable) Interest in ICANN:

- At the Secure Domain Foundation, I lead the international NGO's efforts to fight DNS abuse by engaging with global Internet infrastructure stakeholders. In this role, I present and chair DNS anti-abuse sessions at ICANN meetings, cybersecurity conferences, and DNS forums, throughout the world. Moreover, I analyze legal issues, draft policy papers, and facilitate information sharing for registrars, registries, and global multistakeholder community members.
- At CrowdStrike, I lead the next generation cybersecurity company's efforts to ensure compliance with privacy laws and industry best practices. In doing so, I conduct legal research, identify risks, and advise top executives on opportunities to enhance privacy and transparency. Additionally, I lead legal efforts to prevent DNS trademark infringement and abuse of company brand for the perpetration of cybercrime. I also collaborate with sales teams to enhance customer understanding of the legal aspects of cybersecurity products and services.
- At UMUC, I periodically teach a 6 credit hour cybersecurity policy course, covering emerging domestic and international legal and technology issues related to the protection of ICT systems, competition, digital media, intellectual property, government assets, critical infrastructure and the economy.

To my knowledge, none of these entities have a financial or declarable interest in ICANN.
